Australia's Bush Balladeers

It must be said that Gawler Country Music Club does provide a range of entertainment to suit all tastes. The variety of bands and artists fluctuate from Traditional Country to Country Rock to music for dancing, music for listening, and ultimately... music to enjoy.

If you are a Country purist, book early for this one! Bush Balladeer 'Jeff Brown' will be performing at our venue on Thursday 12th February 8pm 'til 11pm. Admission: $12.00 from Helen our Secretary or Phone 8255 8920.

Want to know more about Jeff's background?

Jeff Brown grew up on his family's property on the Darling Downs in Queensland. Since childhood Jeff has loved Australian Bush Ballad music. He was raised in a family where the music of the great old pioneers of Australian and American Country was the only music played.

In 1997 at the age of 21, Jeff recorded and released his first album "I Remember Gordon Parsons" as a tribute to Gordon.

Jeff's talents were formally recognised when he won the Stan Coster Memorial Bush Ballad Award at the Fosters Battle of the Bush during the Tamworth Festival in 1998.

This same year, Jeff toured with the legendary "Brian Young Show" an experience which helped mould him into the successful entertainer that he is today.

In 2005, Jeff released his album "Mate I'm Feelin' Lucky" and won the Golden Guitar Award for Bush Ballad of the Year with the track "Where The Yellow Kapocks Bloom" penned by Wave Jackson.

Traditional Australian Country Music artist Jeff Brown believes that a good Bush Ballad tells a story that will touch the heart of everyday Aussies. He delivers his stories in song, with sincerity and quality.

Jeff Brown

Jeff sings songs about life on the land and life in the trucking industry; relating to both from his own personal experiences.

"Torn Between Two Worlds" is a song on Jeff's album, "The Open Road". It's about being torn between the music that he loves and the trucking game... and it sums up Jeff to a tee.

2008 started well for Jeff when he was selected as a finalist in the Tamworth Golden Guitar Awards for the 4th time. He also won "Album of the Year" at the Stan Coster Memorial Bush Ballad Awards in Bungendore with his album, "Harvest Time Again".

We look forward to Jeff's live performance here at Gawler Country Music Club on Thursday 12th February.
